

I would prefer the no-call list to remain as is. The idea of companies being able to call me many times to ask questions I'm going to say no to anyways and bother me at inopportune times to do so is something, I hope, could continue to be stopped.